12.00AM - 1PM | FUTURE FOOD SPACE UPSTAIRS

Louis Haugh in collaboration with members of Fatima Groups United

This work looks at the future of food cultivation, consumption, and global supply chains in light of climate breakdown. Together, we have created a space to share ideas, histories and personal relationships connected to food and nourishment, where collective sustenance is valued and time is given to care for one another. Through a series of intergenerational and intercultural exchanges, our intrinsic human relationship to bread and bread making has been at the core of this work.

1PM - 1.30PM BREAK

1.30PM - 3PM | FIELD TRANSPLANTS PROJECT BAR, UPPER & LOWER FOYER

Over a number of months the Rhizome Network have met at the NCAD FIELD to 'common' their research and knowledge. Artist and course leader Gareth Kennedy will introduce the FIELD as a new dynamic pedagogical space where students are charged with developing new Naturecultures to meet our contemporary moment.

NCAD students, in association with members of the Rhizome network, will host a series of pop up stations throughout Project Arts Centre after undertaking the 2022 Spring- Summer semester in the FIELD.

With a focus on Soil, Energy and Food, artists and audiences will be invited to engage and exchange with FIELD members, as well as Dr. Quentin Crowley (TCD Centre for the Environment), Dr. Sarah McCormick (TCD Energy Engineering) and members of the Fatima Community.

3.00PM - 4PM | ROOTS FOR THE FUTURE SPACE UPSTAIRS

Artists Panel Eileen Hutton, Rosie O'Reilly, Vanya Ward Lambrecht and Sinead Curran.

This radical thinking group will design the parameters for a larger assembly in 2023 when a Climate Art Assembly creates a quorum of Irish Artists from across the country to discuss the role of art in the Climate Crisis.

4PM - 4.45PM | POLICY & PROPAGATION SPACE UPSTAIRS

Panel Discussion Alice Ryan (Public Policy Manager · Arts Council of Ireland) and Catriona Fallon (Co-Founder of the Green Arts Initiative of Ireland).

4.45PM - 5PM | Q & A SPACE UPSTAIRS
